Health board dissolves odors sub-committee

by Arlene Surprenant
A sub-committee, which was formed to receive information on odors emanating from the Raffi and Swanson plant on Eames Street and to discuss related health issues, was dissolved on Monday by the Wilmington Board of Health.

On the recommendation of Health Director Greg Erickson, the board voted to disband the sub-committee and notify members of the decision by mail. Erickson maintained the sub-committee had accomplished what it set out to do. A major accomplishment was the receipt of Material Safety Data Sheets listing all chemicals used by Raffi and Swanson on a regular basis. The sheets were made available to neighbors which had formed a citizen's group known as South Wilmington Against Toxics (SWAT).

The sub-committee was formed several months ago when neighbors expressed fears over toxins which they felt were escaping from the plant. Some residents complained of headaches, dizziness, and vomiting which they said were a result of fumes from the plant. The sub-committee was comprised of health officials, representatives from Raffi and Swanson and the Department of Environmental Protection, and several neighbors.

To address the problem, the board of health has been meeting monthly with James Raffi, company president, to determine what action the company is taking to resolve the issue. Raffi said officials were looking at the plant's scrubber and the possibility of installing a thermal oxidizer to stop the odors.

Board members stressed Monday they had to be careful to stay within their jurisdiction, which was only the odor issue. Each time an odor was reported by neighbors, the board has issued a $300 fine to Raffi and Swanson. Erickson told the board all emissions coming from the plant are within legal limits. He added, for this reason, the board could not successfully challenge Raffi and Swanson in court on the emissions.

At past meetings the neighbors, led by the Scolastico family and Martha Cregan, said area residents have suffered with odor problems from various plants for the past 20 years. At times, the neighbors expressed impatience with the slow progress of the board in finding a cause and subsequent resolution of the odor nuisance. They also raised a possible contamination issue on site dating back to a chemical spill in 1986.

Erickson said Monday that problem is under the jurisdiction of the DEP. He explained Raffi and Swanson's consulting firm GZA confirmed that, except for an open ditch on site, "there's virtually no risk involved" from the spill. The director informed his board that the DEP gave Raffi and Swanson until 1994 to come up with a clean-up plan and begin clean-up operations.

Westdale residents seek construction of new culvert

A new nursing home under construction on West Street is the source of worry for some residents of Westdale Avenue. The neighborhood is in the southeast part of Wilmington, near the Mobil station on Route 129.

The problem for the neighbors is water. Everything in the area flows downhill to them, and the stone culvert under the railroad tracks doesn't carry enough water to relieve the flooding.

Westdale Avenue runs downhill for its last 100 yards. The houses on the right side of the road about the site of the new nursing home. The houses nearer West Street back right up to the actual site of the nursing home, but it is the houses at the end that are having water problems.

Greg Getchell lives in the last house on Westdale Avenue, next to the tracks. The bridge that carries Route 93 over the tracks is practically in his back yard. That bridge, though, is not his problem. His problem is the water that is in his back yard.

Frank Ouellette has lived on Westdale Avenue most of his life, now in the third-to-the-last house. Last week, he read a letter to the editor from John Elia. In the letter Elia reminisced about fishing in Ouellette's cellar hole, which he said stood open for several years. Ouellette vehemently denies that that could be possible. The cellar was capped the same year it was built, he said. He felt that Elia included the statement to try to show that Ouellette's cellar was wet and the neighborhood sub-standard. Elia sold the land that is now under development for the nursing home.

Ouellette said that the nursing home site had four depressions on it which had held runoff water. Now that the site has been filled, the water runs off directly into a ditch which, Ouellette says, Elia dug about 15 years ago. That ditch stops just before Ouellette's yard, on the uphill side. This leaves about 200 feet of swamp before the stone culvert under the tracks.

One key element in the construction of the nursing home which has not been performed, Ouellette says, is the construction of a new culvert under the railroad tracks. He said that the nursing home had been approved with the assumption that the culvert was to be built as a part of the reconstruction of Route 129, a state project which has been stalled for many years.

Ouellette has in his files a letter from John Callan, representing the developer. The letter is to another resident of Westdale Avenue, and refers to the DPW plan to replace the culvert with a 6 ft. by 3 ft. prestressed box culvert.

Contributing to the water problem, Ouellette said, are twin 30-in. culverts under West Street, installed during the construction of the now-vacant bank, at the corner of West and Lowell streets.

This sketch shows a proposed culvert under the railroad tracks. Proposed by the state DPW, it has never been built. The nursing home site is off the bottom of the sketch, and Route 93 is to the right.

Area was once a millpond

by Captain Larz Neilson
What assurance is there that Westdale Avenue will not be flooded?

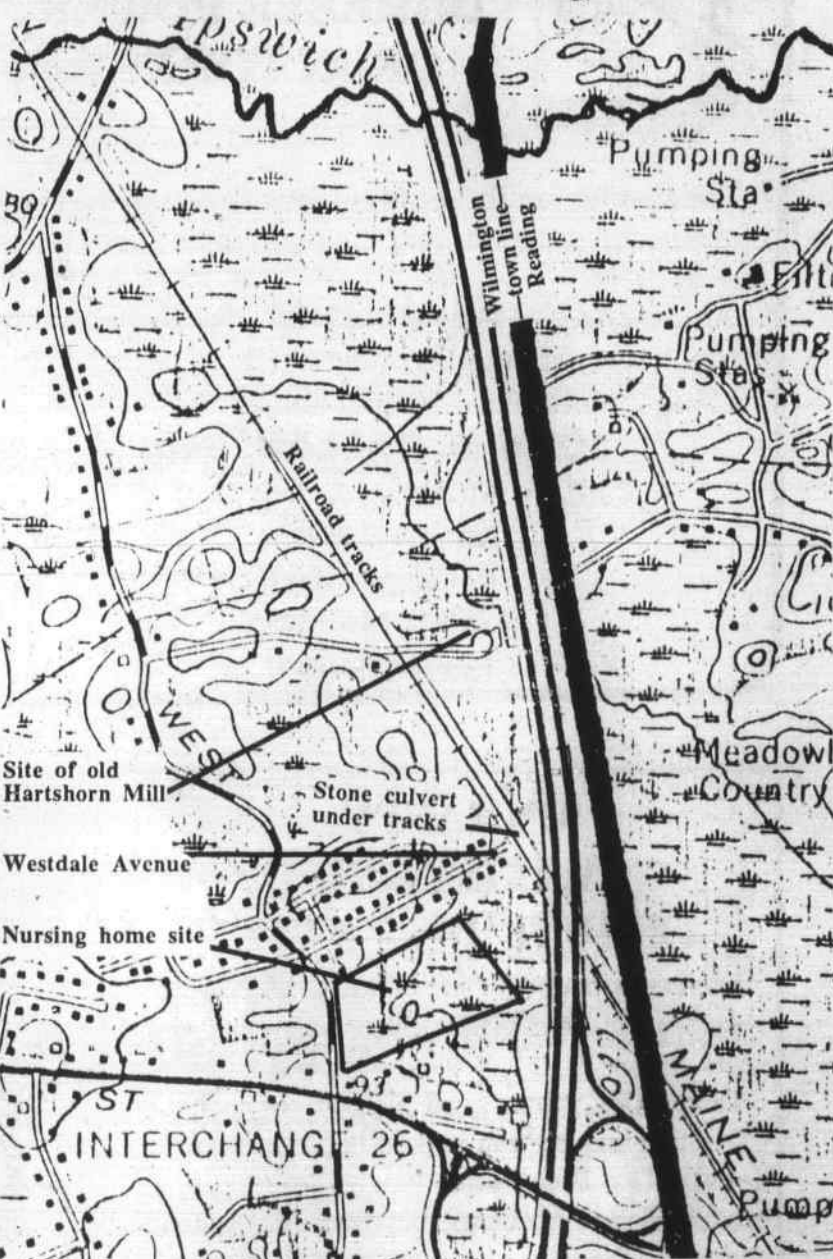

A map or chart, showing the area wherein flows Repah (?) Brook, in Reading and Wilmington is perhaps the best way in which to illustrate the possible flooding problems of Westdale Avenue, in Wilmington. Those problems were discussed in this paper on January 29. The USGS (Geodetic Survey) chart used has an approximate scale of 1,000 feet to one inch, and the chart shows the area between the Ipswich River and Lowell Street (Route 129).

There is a lot of meadow land, southerly of the Ipswich River and on both sides of Repah (?) Brook. Interstate Route 93 goes through as a double barreled highway, and divides the former Grove Street. Westerly of 93 that street is now Kilmarnock Street, and the former Hartshorn Mill was just to the north.

Westdale Avenue, unnamed on the chart, ends at the point at which it approaches the Boston & Maine Railroad. It is about 1,000 feet southerly of Kilmarnock Street. Near the easterly end of Westdale Avenue about eight or 10 homes seem to have been constructed in the past on built up land. Northerly of those homes a pond is shown, a pond which illustrates the current water level in that area.

The Hartshorn Mill two or more hundred years ago probably had a headwater of two or more feet. Today it would be much less.

The lower end of Westdale Avenue was quite probably flooded in those days. So was the area to the south, shown as meadowland on this chart.

Westdale Avenue, near the Reading line and off West Street, is about 1000 feet southerly of the colonial Hartshorn Mill. This copy of a USGS map in Wilmington Town Hall shows what seems to have been an extensive millpond, extending southerly to land near Lowell Street. A 142 bed nursing home is now under construction, southerly of Westdale Avenue. Neighbors are already experiencing flooding.

Hair is the Total You

by Linda Gaffey
COLORING FOR BEGINNERS

If a woman is hesitant about coloring her hair, she should consider highlighting it. This subtle way of changing hair color provides a perfect introduction. It also offers several advantages over a full color change. For one, highlighted hair need only be redone from two to four times a year. Highlighting will also add lightness and brightness to hair without the expense of noticeable regrowth. For more mature women, highlighting disguises gray without totally altering the original color of the hair. Nor will highlighting affect the condition of hair since only selected strands of hair are actually colored. Lastly, highlights can be applied to virtually any hair color type to emphasize the focal point of a cut.

This is where your hair stylist can be of assistance. We can help you select a style that will match your personality and lifestyle needs. Women today are no longer tied to the home front. More and more women are emerging into the business world. For these busy, career minded females, time does not permit the need for endless hours preparing for work. Carefree hairstyles help one to look good while cutting down the time required to achieve this end. Here at SHAWSHEEN HAIR SALON, we provide customers with the professional hair care services they require. Look for us at 161 Shawsheen Ave., Rt. 129, Wilmington. Hours: open six days and nights of the week, closed Sun.

Highlighting actually employs the use of several colors to achieve its effect. On 30-50% gray hair, Matrix Moderation or Socolorizing will create a highlighted effect without changing your natural hair color.

Selectmen seek WRA funds---again

by Arlene Surprenant
Once again the Wilmington Redevelopment Authority is being encouraged to attend a selectmen's meeting to see if members would be willing to donate all or part of the money in their account to the town to ease a serious budget crunch.

At the insistence of Tony Capuano, a candidate for the board of selectmen in April's election, selectmen agreed Monday to direct Town Manager Michael Caira to ask WRA members to visit their board. Capuano said several residents had raised the issue with him.

"The people are asking now because the times are so tough. We don't have any money for school guards. We don't have any money for police cruisers," he said adding, "I think it's about time you get them (WRA) in here."

Selectmen expressed doubts that anything would come of their request. They explained two years ago WRA members made a monetary gift to the town but, under the present setup, "it is legally impossible" to take the money.

Capuano persisted. "If you don't ask them they're never going to give it to you," he said.

Capuano said he was upset at the way the authority is using its money to hire consultants for several projects in Wilmington. He said he wasn't "casting stones" at authority members but felt that "nothing's getting accomplished."

"Believe me, we're not blowing any money here," said Chairman Dan Ballou. He told Capuano elected officials have to answer to the people and suggested the candidate pay a visit to the redevelopment authority himself and raise the issue with them.

Some selectmen praised authority members for their work to move the Burlington Avenue bridge project along and for acting on the board's recommendation to widen traffic lanes on Route 38 from Middlesex Avenue to the Tewksbury town line. The former project is currently being worked on by engineers with the state while Fay, Spofford, and Thorndike has been hired to work on a design for road widening by Wilmington Plaza. Selectman Robert Cain said consultants help with a project's design for, without a design, the state wouldn't consider a project.

"The redevelopment authority has an important role to play in town," said Mark Haldane.

"They have been very effective over the years," added Cain. He pointed out the authority originally started out with $20,000 in seed money, a figure which grew with the development of industry on Jewell Drive.

Cain reminded those present once the WRA account is depleted, "there's no way to get it (the money) back."

In obvious reference to unexpended housing authority funds being returned to the state, Haldane pointed out at least the WRA money is being spent on local projects to benefit Wilmington.

Caira cautioned selectmen to take a long look at the way the WRA plans to use the funds before they "grab onto it as a quick fix."

Fincom schedule

The Wilmington Finance Committee will begin hearings on the recommended FY 1993 budget this Thursday at the town hall off Glen Road. The meetings are open to the public. Following is a list of dates for upcoming meetings.

February 13, General Government; February 18, Board of Health, Building Inspector/Board of Appeals, Recreation Department, Planning Board.

February 20, Veterans services, Historical Commission, Commission on Disabilities, Public Buildings; February 25, Public Safety (Auditorium).

March 3, Elderly Services, Library, Department of Public Works; March 10, Debt Service, Unclassified and Statutory Charges.

March 17, Revenue; March 19, Education; March 24, Public Hearing (Auditorium).

All meetings are in Room 9, town hall except as noted. All meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Board okays crushing operation

by Arlene Surprenant
A local developer received permission from Wilmington selectmen Monday to process ledge material on site providing he conform to restrictions placed on him by the Building Inspector and the Town Engineer.

Kevin MacDonald, developer of the Treasure Hill Road subdivision off Andover Street, said he would like to crush ledge found on site and use the gravel to fill around the subdivision's new homes and driveways. He said processing the material on site would be less costly and avoid trucks coming in and exiting the property.

MacDonald added he expects the processing operation to take place either in the spring or the summer. Selectmen were informed there were 5,000 to 6,000 cubic yards of material to be processed on site. Both Jim Russo, building inspector, and Town Engineer Harold Gillam stressed they had no problem with the request as long as the operation is confined to the Andover Street site. In addition, Russo suggested the following: hours of operation be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., only on weekdays; the operation run for only 14 total days; both Russo and Gillam be notified of crushing work in advance; and the operation be discontinued should it become a nuisance to abutters.

MacDonald agreed to abide by the suggestions. He said he expects the operation may not run 14 days in succession because weather conditions may interfere or the machine may break down. Selectman Mark Haldane said he was against a prolonged operation, in deference to residents nearby. MacDonald said the operation would affect few abutters.

Tom Siracusa, a candidate for the board of selectmen, asked how much noise the crushing operation would make. He was told it would be "pretty noisy" but it would take place in a depressed area with walls which would reduce the sound.

Selectmen noted what was being proposed was within the scope of the town bylaws, especially since the developer wasn't running a business on site. Bob Doucette pointed out his board had the authority to stop anything illegal as has been done in the past.

The board approved MacDonald's request with the five restrictions.

Dog owner warned to restrain pet

by Arlene Surprenant
Wilmington health officials issued a stern warning Monday to the owner of a male rottweiler telling him not to let his dog loose again.

This was the second time John Eldredge of Hopkins Street was asked to come before the board. The first time he was told to get rid of one of his two dogs because of an attack on a miniature horse owned by his neighbor Dottie Fox. The board directed Eldredge to keep the other dog, the male, indoors.

Animal Control Officer Ellen

Davis said Monday she was contacted by Fox who was angry because the male dog was again in her yard. The board was uncertain whether Eldredge had let the dog out or his grandmother had felt sorry for the dog, as Eldredge claimed, and let him downstairs.

Chairman Jim Ficociello stressed that the owner had to comply with his board's directive to restrain his animal and not let it roam the neighborhood. When Eldredge said his grandmother had been receiving "harassing" phone calls about the dog, Ficociello suggested he take the matter up with the police department.

Because there wasn't an actual attack this time, the board explained they could do nothing more than issue a fine for breaking the town leash law and reiterate their ruling that the dog be kept indoors. Under health regulations, the board would have the power to order the dog banned from town or euthanized if he attacked another animal or human being. Eldredge promised to comply with the board's direction.

Debris hearing delayed

by Arlene Surprenant

A show-cause hearing in Woburn Court has been postponed to March 11 following an effort by Ainsworth Road property owner Theresa Iminski to clean up her land. Iminski is a trustee with Sunshine Realty Trust.

The Wilmington Board of Health had decided to take the case to court after there was no response to an order to clean up debris and an overflowing dumpster on the property. Part of the problem had to do with a claim that abuttor Coleman MacDonald had dumped part of the debris on the site in question and allegedly refused to remove it. In a call to the board, Mr. Iminski said he was pursuing a civil suit against MacDonald to try to force him to help with the problem. MacDonald, an excavation contractor, has filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy.

Officials said Monday they were pleased to learn that Iminski had removed the dumpster and some debris along the right of way. Health officials suggested a letter be sent to the Iminskis thanking them for their cooperation and reminding them to remove the rest of the unwanted material from the site.

LET INSURANCE PAY ESTATE TAXES

The more money you have, the more you need to pay attention to shielding it from estate taxes. Survivorship life insurance may help.

The IRS allows an unlimited marital deduction, so that, at the death of the first spouse, the entire estate can pass to the surviving spouse free of federal estate taxes. But when that person dies, federal and state estate taxes may come due.

One way to pay those taxes is with the proceeds of survivorship life insurance policy (also called a second-to-die policy) purchased by an irrevocable insurance trust for just such purpose. Because premiums are based on the joint life expectancy of the couple, costs are more reasonable than for separate individual policies.

If your estate totals more than $600,000, or promises to get there in the foreseeable future - it's wise to discuss with your professional tax advisors how to shelter it from estate taxes. State tax obligations may be triggered at a lower figure.

Water problems plague developer

by Arlene Surprenant
Water runoff and drainage problems seemed to plague developer Mark Lopez at last Wednesday's Conservation Commission meeting in Wilmington.

Lopez was present with Attorney Bob Peterson to request a negative determination which would allow him to go ahead with grading work and construction of two single family homes, one on Aldrich Road and one on Chestnut Street. Both homes will be within the 100 foot buffer zone of wetlands. The hearings were continued from January because former Conservation Administrator Eileen Chabot had some concerns about water and the nearby wetlands.

Peterson explained his client wants to move the foundation on the first home 50 feet closer to Aldrich Road to lessen the impact on wetlands behind the existing foundation. He added there were standing pools of water nearby.

The pools were the board's main concern. According to Chairman Dennis Poltrino, a neighbor had rebuilt his septic system up four feet to meet health department regulations and water now falls into a ponding area because it has no where else to go. Commissioner John White explained the neighbor was concerned with drainage problems because his property was too low. White told the men, during construction, they could not fill higher than the existing grade or else the standing water would be displaced and runoff increased.

Commission member Gary Mercer suggested the board make a visit to the site, especially since the issue "isn't all black and white."

"This one looks like it could be a loaded gun for us and you,"

Mercer told the proponents.

The commissioners also told prospective buyers Margery and Leo Hamel they were unsure if there would be restrictions on the use of their backyard. They said they could tell more, especially about potential flooding, once they paid a visit to the property. The site walk was arranged for Sunday, February 9.

On the Chestnut Street site, commissioners were concerned about the proximity of the long driveway to nearby wetlands. The lot is a hammerhead lot. Commissioners said a paved driveway would increase runoff that would travel to the wetlands. Chabot had suggested moving the driveway over five feet to lessen the impact.

The prospective homeowner, Carl Malenchini, told the board he planned to level part of the yard to do some landscaping. He was told he couldn't cut down any trees without first coming to the board since the trees are in a resource area that falls under the commission's jurisdiction.

"If you start filling in the area, you're going to displace water and affect other people," said Poltrino.

Commissioners asked the proponents to return with some needed information including the dimensions from the driveway to the wetlands and a revised plan showing house size and paving work. Planning - Conservation Director Lynn Duncan noted that Wilmington's former intern, Don Nadeau, was going to help the town out as a technical expert in conservation on a temporary basis until another expert could be hired in March. The hearings on both sites were continued to February 19.

Siracusa is candidate for Board of Selectmen

Thomas W. Siracusa of 5 Elwood Road, has announced his candidacy for the Wilmington Board of Selectmen. A systems engineer employed by Wilmington based Dynamics Research Corporation since 1976, Siracusa has a record of reason, accomplishment and leadership.

As engineering coordinator at Raytheon Company, Tom was responsible for the coordination of engineering and production of missile system test equipment. He has supervised over 75 employees at DRC and is responsible for product quality and reliability assurance.

His technical ability and management skills became assets in the political arena in 1991 when Governor William F. Weld tapped him as gubernatorial appointee of the Wilmington Housing Authority.

Within three months Siracusa's colleagues had elevated him to the Authority's chairmanship. As chairman, Siracusa has been instrumental in ushering in a new era of openness and cooperation at the Housing Authority. "I have an ability to pull factions together. Working as a team in town government, we will produce the programs the public has a right to expect," said Siracusa.

Siracusa is a leading voice addressing the housing needs of Wilmington. He is a member of the Wilmington Housing Partnership, where he lends his expertise to promoting affordable housing in the community.

Tom Siracusa is a successful business leader and articulate voice for the people of Wilmington. Last year he earned the support of the Governor. This year he is asking for your support as he seeks a seat on the Board of Selectmen.

After earning an associates degree in electrical engineering in 1971, Siracusa received his bachelor of science degree in management from Northeastern University and is working toward a masters in government from Harvard University Extension.

In an age of budget restraints, government regulation and heightened scrutiny of local government functions, Wilmington needs selectmen who understand the complexities of government in the nineties. "We're living in a new decade with new challenges, and I want to be the Wilmington Selectman who works with people to solve the problems we all face as a community."

Tom Siracusa and his wife Bett have four children, Tom Jr., 16, Jennifer, 15, Daniel, 6 and Elizabeth, 4.

Potential shortfalls in local aid

by Arlene Surprenant

As towns prepare and present their budgets for fiscal 1993, officials have been informed of a potential deficit in state aid for cities and towns. According to the Massachusetts Municipal Association, there will be shortfalls in lottery receipts and highway aid.

A newsletter from MMA said lottery receipts are falling short of projections by an estimated $41 million and Highway Fund reimbursements are proposed to be cut by $39 million.

Wilmington Town Manager Michael Cairns told selectmen Monday he was prepared and had based his budget on a shortfall of highway aid.

"That's not a problem, at least for the moment," he said.

He added, however, that the shortage of lottery funds could pose a problem for Wilmington since his budget is based on a level funding of lottery monies.

Cairns predicted there would be "a continuing battle" over the local aid situation, especially between legislators and Governor William Weld. He pointed out he had kept his budget figures "extremely conservative" and didn't even include any of the $186 million earmarked by the governor for education in his budget package.

Scholarships offered by Garden Club

The Wilmington Garden Club has announced the availability of scholarships for high school seniors and teachers through the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts.

High school students may apply for a scholarship whose interest is in the study of environmental sciences or the art and or science related to horticulture in its widest aspect. Forms may be picked up at the guidance office.

Also available is the Patricia H. Dennett Fund for teachers to further their education by taking courses of workshops in ecology, conservation, horticulture or Garden Club Federation related subjects. Applicants for this fund shall be a state resident teaching in a Massachusetts elementary, middle or high school.

Completed applications from both high school students and teachers must be submitted with the necessary requirements to the local Garden Club president by March 9, 1992 by calling Olive MacQuarrie, 657-7340 or Jean Hartka, 658-6211.

House lot excluded from ConCom order

by Arlene Surprenant

After reviewing a request by Attorney Bob Vassallo, members of the Wilmington Conservation Commission last week agreed to furnish a letter clarifying language in a negative determination so the sale of a new home could be finalized and money held in escrow could be released.

Vassallo and engineer Erich Nitzsche spoke on behalf of John Lucci, former owner of a new home at 640 Woburn Street. The home is part of the Waterford Estates subdivision that was originally developed by Steve Lawrenson. When Lawrenson's bonding company went bankrupt, the developer was forced into foreclosure proceedings. Lucci picked up the property in question at auction and sold it in January to another buyer. Vassallo said the bank was holding some money in escrow until officials received a Certificate of Compliance stating that work was done to the board's satisfaction. He added, in his estimation, since the lot had frontage and access to Woburn Street and not to the subdivision road, it really wasn't part of the subdivision.

Commissioner John White explained the board issued an order of conditions on the subdivision primarily to assure that the developer would clean up a culvert on the property. Vassallo said the culvert really didn't impact the lot under consideration. Planning - Conservation Director Lynn Duncan told this paper the lot was not subject to the order of conditions and therefore doesn't require a Certificate of Compliance. Chairman Dennis Poltrino agreed saying "this particular lot is independent of the other lots."

In the end, members said they would leave the remaining lots, including about seven undeveloped parcels, under the old order and write a letter explaining the lot is not tied to the order and no Certificate of Compliance or as-built plan is required on the lot.

Webelos place first in Klondike Derby

The Webelos Wildcat Den of Wilmington's Pack 136 took first place in the Webelos division of a Klondike Derby held recently at Camp Paul in Chelmsford by the Greater Lowell Council of Boy Scouts.

The boys who participated were Michael Graham, Jason Bristol, Eric Veator, and Chris Ramsdell.

Among the areas of competition were: fire building, first aid, compass, handicap awareness, knot tying, and snow shoe racing.

The Webelos also camped out at Camp Watueca in Northwood, N.H. on the weekend of Jan. 31-Feb. 2.

The 15 boys who enjoyed that camping experience were: Larry Burns, Danny Devine, Mike Fournier, Adam Fournier, Shea Marden, Joey Silva, Jimmy Pires, Jason Bristol, Bobby Mauriello, Chris Ramsdell, Eric Veator, Blake Genetti, Ryan Lloyd, Adam Campbell and James Sawyer.

AUTO POLICY LIMITS

QUESTION: What do the numbers, "10/20/5" mean when referring to a car insurance policy?

ANSWER: These numbers refer to the amounts of auto liability insurance (in thousands of dollars) in three categories. The first group identifies the amount of coverage for bodily injury to any one person in an accident. The second, is the amount of coverage for all bodily injuries suffered in an accident. The third group represents the amount of coverage for damage to another person's car or property. Most insurance companies will not sell you limits lower than state minimums.

AUTO POLICY limits are expressed in a series of 3 numbers such as 10/20/5.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:
In response to the adverse publicity generated by Arlene Surprenant's front page article ("WHA to Return $134K"), and "Frankly Speaking" in last week's Town Crier, I believe that your readers deserve to understand the facts behind the State's mandate to all Local Housing authorities (LHAs) to return all funds that had been previously allocated for Development and Modernization Projects. The following letter was written to all LHA Executive Directors by an Administrator of the Executive Office of Communities & Development (EOCD).

Received November 19, 1991
Dear Executive Director:

I am writing you concerning EOCD's need to recover all funds that have been advanced to LHAs for capital projects. These funds include projects in development and projects in modernization. As you know several worthwhile projects have been suspended throughout the Commonwealth in order to reduce overall state bond spending. Many of these suspended projects had been advanced funds. EOCD must recover all these funds by December 31, 1991.

Most remaining projects, either active or in closeout, also have some advance cash funding. EOCD must reduce the amount of these advances to an amount that does not exceed actual need through December 31, 1991. After that time, funds can no longer be advanced for active projects, rather funds will only be forwarded to cover invoices in hand at LHAs. This change in the manner in which EOCD will fund capital projects after December 31, 1991 is not a discretionary decision of EOCD. This change has been mandated by the Secretary of Administration and Finance and the Comptroller of the Commonwealth.

The members of my staff from Development, Modernization and Finance will be contacting your agency both by telephone and letter concerning the recovery of all advance funding for the capital programs. I urge all of you to give this matter a high priority and fully cooperate with my staff. Thank you for your help in this matter.

Sincerely,
William Hetherington
Administrator
Division of Housing

Mr. Hetherington's letter makes it very clear that the change in the State's funding policy for LHA's is mandated by the Weld Administration, not the EOCD. Therefore, all Housing Authorities are expected to comply.

Sincerely,
Ella M. Belmore
Executive Director

Dear Larz:
The Westdale Avenue abutters would like to thank former conservation director Eileen Chabot and the town manager (government) for their cooperation and understanding of the water problems we are experiencing on Westdale Avenue.

Eileen's technical knowledge and her ultimate respect for conservation issues will be sadly missed by the town and especially the neighbors who have come to know her.

Knowing of the town's fiscal problems, Eileen has informed us that the merging of the conservation division with the planning department will not sideline conservation issues within the town.

Again, the Westdale Avenue abutters thank Eileen for her support and wish her the best in her new endeavors.

Gregory S. Getchell

25 years ago

The February 17, 1966 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

E. Haywood Bliss, civil engineer and Attorney Roland I. Wood, both of Wilmington were appointed by Monte Green, Cambridge real estate man to be in charge of local affairs of the proposed Wilmington Stadium to be located off Route 93, near Route 125.

Winifred F. Spurr, chairman of the Reading Municipal Light Board (RMLD), commenting on the report of the Wilmington Power Committee, to the combined Boards of Selectmen of Wilmington, No. Reading and Lynnfield, said that the rates charged to the three communities are identical to those charges to Reading customer.

A target date of March 2 had been set for RMLD on which there would be a general reduction in rates. The expected reduction - $200,000 for the customers in the four towns served.

Pamela Godzyk, of Parker Street was awarded the Gold Key and a Certificate of Merit by the Boston Globe as a Scholastic Arts Award.

Rocco's Restaurant offered a complete take-out fish dinner for four for $2.95; bucket of ravioli to serve four, $1.95 or take out orders of clams, haddock, shrimp, scallops, chicken, $9.9.

One hundred and six voters attended the League of Women Voters candidates night. Pictured at the event were Bill Belbin, Moderator Simon Cutter, Richard Keane, Joseph Paglia, Al Lanni, Mrs. Harry Johnson and Mrs. Barbara Hooper of the League; Fred Arsenault, Charles H. Black, James Banda, Robert Lahey, James Miceli, Joseph Sottile and Felice Vitale.

Elia's Market offered beef liver, 59 cents a pound; cube steak, 98 cents a pound, and a dozen English muffins for 25 cents with a coupon and a purchase of $5 or more.

frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

A Hispanic couple and their school age daughter were the first family to see their dream of home ownership come one step closer two Saturdays ago. With their name drawn by Selectman Mark Haldane, this family took one of the two coveted slots as minority candidates for affordable housing at Shawsheen River Estates.

None of the abutters, who perhaps have a great deal at stake financially, depending on what appraiser you talk to, were on hand. If present, there would have been a vivid social and economic clash between the haves and have nots.

Those who haven't their own home, a place to invest and take pride in, weren't concerned with the hours for blasting operations or who accepted and who declined money from the developer to stop fighting his project tooth and nail. The have nots at Saturday's lottery were just looking for a roof over their heads, a little back yard for the kids, maybe even a spot for a vegetable garden and a place to hang the wash where it could dry in the fresh, New England summer air.

This "minority family" doesn't look like most of the 18,000 people who live in Wilmington. Their skin and eyes are darker than most, and some people might have to strain a bit to comprehend the broken English. Maybe that's part of the fight against Shawsheen Estates, a certain fear which America has seen on the affordable housing trail before.

The truth here is what opponents don't like in their back yard. It's a fear of the unknown. They've known their neighbors for 20 years and they are afraid that new neighbors, some of whom look and speak "differently," might have a different background or dissimilar values.

But the truth of the matter is that the new neighbors just want what every other American family wants, and what that neighborhood already has.

That is a chance, a housing opportunity, to own their own home and seek the American Dream.

A dream which should be blind to color, creed, religion, ethnicity and any other "differences".

Briefly in Politics...

Linda McMenimen is making good on the political "teasers" floated over the past few months, and has launched a comeback engagement for the Wilmington School Committee from which she retired in 1985.

The Chapter One Director at Greater Lowell Vocational High School, McMenimen supporters and detractors both describe her as an often "combative" advocate for public education who seems to relish a good, fair fight where education issues are concerned. McMenimen's floor debates at past town meetings with Buzz Staczynski were a prime example of a school committee member articulating the needs of a school system. If Buzz wanted to cut so much as a buck, he had to first make his way past the Roman House human shield — Linda McMenimen.

Whether this feisty style was fancied or frowned on, townspeople came to attribute a certain legitimacy to McMenimen which she carries as an attribute to this years contest.

McMenimen, just elected vocational educator of the year at Lowell Voke, said she does not support the controversial Wilmington teachers' pay raise "not knowing what the future holds" and believes a key issue in this year's election is ending what might best be described as a war of personalities. "Personalities and issues have to be separated," said McMenimen.

Critics charge the former board member with a long-standing vendetta against Superintendent Bill Fay. But the former school committeewoman denies the rumors that she is set on ousting the school chief and seemed to be extending a political olive branch when she said, "I feel that I've always been able to separate the person from the issues. He is the superintendent and you have to give him a chance to present new ideas and act on them reasonably with the best interests of the students," said McMenimen.

Three seats on the education board are up for grabs, with incumbents Caira, DeMarco and Paglia in the ring, opposed also by former member Jim Demos and once-appointed member Brad Jackson who lost his bid for a school committee seat last year by a slim 104 vote margin.

Paglia is certainly the weakest of the field, playing a post controversial tenure swan song. Following her one-vote-margin election victory in 1989, Paglia has left them all wincing at speeches which hit you like a modern art show. We call it Paglia-speak and it's added a certain mystical dimension to the broadening horizons at T.V. 52.

Paglia-speak on the election would be something like, "This re-election is a spiritual tide washing over my bare feet as they walk the political beach of life."

The question is who will bring Paglia's seat back from the Twilight Zone, McMenimen or Jackson. McMenimen is well positioned due to name recognition and the fact that many voters will want to replace one woman on the board with another. Jackson best meets the wants of fiscally conservative voters. A former finance committee member, Jackson "looks the part of your penny pinching accountant" said one supporter.

Jackson also opposed the teachers' contract, and should that issue continue to flame voter anger, Paglia's seat would not be the only one on the electoral fire, opening the door wider for Jim Demos, who is not expected to campaign actively, but could be the sleeper in this race.

Ironically, of the three incumbents up for re-election only Paglia opposed the teachers $2.7 million pay raise. But that highly virtuous vote has been overshadowed by the Gerry Brown-like image.

State Senator Bob Buell announced this week that Wilmington will soon receive $27,432 in Emergency Education Assistance Aid. Enacted a few months ago to assist local school systems hard hit by the budget ax, the Emergency Education Act will provide a total of $30 million in relief aid for schools, with the largest awards landing in Lawrence and Chelsea.

Buell said he is "pleasantly surprised" because he anticipated "almost all the funds would go to the urban school systems."

Superintendent Bill Fay said the added dollars will be applied to text book funding.

The Town Crier has learned that despite reports to the contrary, Governor William F. Weld (R) is standing firm behind a Republican proposal to create a new Merrimack Valley congressional district where Wilmington and Tewksbury would be united with Greater Lowell communities. Tewksbury will not be split under the plan.

State Senator Bob Buell (R - Boxford), after a closed-door strategy meeting with the governor, told the Town Crier on Tuesday night that Weld said he will not compromise with Democratic leaders, as had been reported, "unless they give Republicans a shot at three seats and that the main theme of it is a Merrimack Valley seat."

Lowell State Senator Nancy Achin Sullivan (R) has led a virtual crusade to create a new Merrimack Valley seat in a Massachusetts delegation which will shrink from eleven to ten.

Carter Lecture funds a chair

The work on the renovation of the Barrows Auditorium at Wilmington High School has been completed, but funds are still coming in. On Friday, May Bliss (right) of the Carter Lecture Fund presented a check to Lorraine Kalil for a chair in the auditorium. The Carter Lecture Series presents an annual program in the auditorium, funded by the bequest of the late Sarah D.J. Carter.

Entertainment permit issued for trial period

by Arlene Surprenant
Piano music from the 40's to the 60's, sing-a-longs, and comedy acts will soon be featured at Rocco's Restaurant on Main Street in Wilmington following the approval of a one-year entertainment permit to owner Rocco DePasquale. Under the current bylaws, entertainment use is not allowed within the town limits except with a special permit.

Despite some residents' concerns about noise, traffic, late night consumption of alcohol, and a potential change in clientele, the Wilmington Board of Appeals on Tuesday unanimously approved the restaurateur's request. Under the terms of the permit, which is non-transferable, DePasquale will be able to have entertainment in his restaurant between the hours of 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. on Friday and Saturday nights. He will also be able to keep his large screen TV which was installed last year so customers could keep current on the gulf war.

The entertainers will perform in the glassed-in part of the restaurant. DePasquale said, by consensus of the board of selectmen, there will be no change in the restrictions on his liquor license. He also explained there wouldn't be a tavern atmosphere in his facility.

The owner was seeking the permit in order to better compete with pizza and sub shops in town.

"We don't know if it's going to work. If it doesn't work I'll stop it," DePasquale promised the board.

One Main Street resident spoke out against late night alcohol consumption and the potential impact on neighbors and fellow drivers once customers leave the restaurant.

"Basically, people are going to use it, drink, and have a good time," she said adding that no one would be eating much food late at night.

DePasquale replied that, most likely, customers who will be present for the entertainment will be patrons who have already eaten dinner and just want to stay a little longer for the entertainment.

"If they go someplace else (and drink) they still have to come into town," he argued.

Joe Colbert of Wiser Avenue maintained he was the closest abuttor and, as such, would feel the biggest impact. He claimed the proposal will aggravate an already bad traffic problem in the vicinity.

He urged the board to delay a decision until members get more input from the planning board and an area accident report from local police. Earlier, Bill Hooper of the planning board had said because the proposal will not increase the number of seats or parking spaces his board had no problem with the permit.

"This is a big buck proposition ... You're opening up Pandora's Box," persisted Colbert.

Acting Chairman Joe McMenimen said he was not sure that granting the permit would exacerbate the traffic problem.

Walter Michaud of Clinton Street argued the television: will draw fight fans late at night and change the business from a family oriented restaurant. Michaud said, while he wasn't "really against what he's trying to do," he had seen such changes in other nearby restaurants. DePasquale replied he had had no problem in the last year with the television in place.

Despite these and one or two reservations expressed by the appeals board, members decided to issue a one year permit on a trial basis. The board will sign the permit at its next meeting in two weeks. Then there will be a 21-day waiting period before it can go into effect. Members noted other restaurant owners seeking a similar permit would have to go through their own hearing process and get it on their own merit.

Soup option for lunch

Starting in February, the Eating Together luncheons for people over the age of 60, will offer a weekly menu option of soup and sandwich. The soup and sandwich menu is being offered in response to feedback from elders who are looking for a lighter lunch than the regular meal of meat, potatoes and vegetables served at the Eating Together Luncheons.

Minuteman Home Care operates 11 Eating Together sites in the area, all of which offer a nutritious noon meal and socialization to anyone over the age of 60. Reservations are required by 11 a.m. one day in advance although there are often cancellations that can be filled by people who call in the same day. A donation of $1.50 is requested for the meal, and the donation is voluntary and confidential.

The soup and sandwich option will be offered Mondays at the Veterans Memorial Senior Center in Woburn (617) 935-2239.

Reading Light offers discount on time of use

The Reading Municipal Light Department (RMLD) recently enacted a 5.5 percent rate increase which went into effect in October, 1991. According to RMLD General Manager Len Rucker, this was the first annual rate increase for the department since 1986.

"As is true for other electric utilities throughout the United States, the RMLD is constantly battling the 'war of the budget' to keep rates low," Manager Rucker said. "The RMLD believes it has been successful in balancing reliability and economics in the operation of the department."

In 1985, the RMLD ranked 11th of the 42 electric utilities in Massachusetts when comparing costs for 500 kwh consumption per month. From 1987 through 1989, the RMLD ranked 10th; the utility moved to the eighth position in 1990, and second in 1991. The RMLD credits this to various measures enacted by the RMLD to help stabilize annual costs while operating the utility in a highly reliable manner.

"The RMLD believes its record speaks for itself," Vin Cameron, manager of the Energy Services Division said, "but we are not satisfied. The RMLD's goal to be number one, is entirely realistic. We will continue to work to meet this goal through customer focused programs such as energy audits, budget billing and energy efficient lighting."

According to Cameron, the RMLD's electric rates have been expanded to offer Time of Use billing. Under this program, RMLD customers can move their electric usage to off peak periods to lower their costs.

The RMLD will continue to take advantage of market priced power purchases which, he said, in the near term will further assist in establishing rates.

Cameron also expressed the RMLD's gratitude to RMLD customers for using electricity efficiently and for their efforts to keep annual peak demands to a minimum.

"These are the two most important measures to keep costs at a minimum," Cameron added. "Power supply accounts for 90 percent of RMLD costs."

Silent auction at Women's Club

The Wilmington Women's Club will meet on February 20 at the United Methodist Church. A silent auction will begin at 10 a.m. Dorothy Lafionatis hopes to have many attractive items on which to bid.

Dinner reservations for the March 18 evening meeting may be taken at this time, or members may call Edith Michelson at 658-2100, deadline March 13.

Andrea Houser and her committee will host the noon luncheon, and Dorothy Lafionatis will give the invocation.

At the business meeting three new members are expected to be inducted. The club will welcome Annette Curley, Dorothy Pinkerton and Elaine Chisholm.

The program for the day will feature Sheriff Robert Rufo, his subject being "Perilous Crime-ridden Boston," certainly his field of expertise. Sheriff Rufo is well known as a speaker on the subjects of crime and law enforcement.

Daniel E. MacDonald

Daniel E. MacDonald, 86 of Wilmington died Saturday, February 8, 1992 at the Lahey Clinic Medical Center in Burlington.

Born in Brighton, he was the son of the late William and Nellie (Reddem) MacDonald and lived in Brighton for many years prior to moving to Wilmington 40 years ago. Before retirement he was employed as an electrician for Eastern Gas and Fuel in Brighton for many years.

Mr. MacDonald is survived by his beloved wife of 64 years, Alice C. (Hillier); his children, Edward D. and Robert J. both of Billerica; Helen I. of Framingham and Richard J. of Bradford; his sister Mae O'Leary of Wilmington. He is also survived by nine grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

His funeral was held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home followed by a funeral mass at St. Thomas Church. Interment took place in the family lot, Wildwood Cemetery.

Memorials in his name may be made to the American Lung Association of Middlesex County, P.O. Box 265, Burlington, MA 01803.

Thomas R. O'Keefe

Thomas R. O'Keefe 36, a member of a widely known Tewksbury family died unexpectedly Thursday, February 6, 1992.

He was born in Boston, June 28, 1955, the son of James B. O'Keefe of Tewksbury and the late Eleanor E. (Harrington) O'Keefe. He was raised in Tewksbury and graduated from Tewksbury Memorial High School with the Class of 1973. He lived in Lowell prior to returning to Tewksbury 10 years ago.

Mr. O'Keefe worked as a machine operator in several area businesses including the Holt and Bugbee Lumber Company of Tewksbury.

In addition to his father, James B. O'Keefe, vocalist at St. Dorothy's Church, Wilmington, he is survived by two sons, Caine O'Keefe and Myles O'Keefe both of Derry, N.H.; four brothers and sisters in law, Edward J. and Janet (Vidito) O'Keefe of Dracut, Stephen M. and Kristina (Ford) O'Keefe of Nashua, Gerard L. and Susan (Morrisette-Lasa) O'Keefe of Bradford, John L. and Margaret (Smolinsky) O'Keefe of Lowell; one sister and brother in law, Christine M. and Robert Ouellette of Nashua.

He was also the brother of the late James B. O'Keefe III.

A funeral mass was celebrated Saturday, Feb. 8 in St. Dorothy's Church. Burial was in Lowell Cemetery. Arrangements were through the Tewksbury Funeral Home.

Robert C. Wilkins

Robert C. Wilkins, formerly of Lowell, died Tuesday, February 4, 1992 at his sister's home in West Burke, Vt., after a lengthy illness.

Born in Somerville, May 9, 1930, he was the son of the late Louis and Bertha (Westlin) Wilkins and was pre-deceased by his wife, Jane Wilkins.

Mr. Wilkins was educated in Wilmington and his family once lived in the old Benjamin Buck House on Wildwood Street. He was a well loved and active member of the 4-H Happy Hoers (specializing in Victory Gardens) and the Handicraft Club both led by the late Wilfred Andrews.

The Wilkins family moved to Whipple Road in Tewksbury and Bob later became a well known building contractor in the Merrimack Valley and was past president of the Greater Lowell Home Builders Association.

A World War II Army veteran, he was stationed in Germany.

Mr. Wilkins is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Michael (Kim) Campbell of Greenland, N.H., and Robin Wilkins of Pompano, Fla.; a brother, Raymond Wilkins of Pelham, N.H.; three sisters, Mrs. Ralph (Doris) Olson of Bath, N.H.; Mrs. Robert (Lois) Reid of Lowell and Mrs. Keith (Joan) Fadden of West Burke, Vt.; two aunts, Frances Wilkins of Bath, N.H. and Mrs. Rose Gifford of Melrose and many nieces and nephews and longtime friends.

He was also the brother of the late Richard and Ralph Wilkins.

Helen M. Johnson

Helen M. (Lane) Johnson, 82 of Wilmington, died Friday, February 7, 1992 at the Middlesex County Hospital in Waltham.

Born in Somerville, she was the daughter of the late John E. and Emma E. (Devine) Lane and had lived in Wilmington for over 40 years. Prior to retirement she was employed as a clerk for High Voltage in Burlington. Mrs. Johnson was also a member of the Wilmington Senior Citizens.

She was the widow of Thomas O. Johnson, Jr.; mother of the late Thomas O. III; sister of the late Gerda (Brennick) Oteri, the late Dorothy Black, and late Hazel Sharkey and the late John Edgar Lane, all of Wilmington. She is survived by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home followed by a funeral mass at St. Thomas. Interment took place in Wildwood Cemetery.

Registered Democrats in Wilmington will be holding a caucus on Saturday, February 29, 1992 at 2:00 p.m. to elect delegates to the 1992 Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Wilmington will be electing 10 delegates and four alternates, equally divided between men and women, to send to the Convention. The apportioned number of delegates has been allocated on the basis of formula giving equal weight to the Democratic Party registration and the average vote for Democratic candidates in the last general elections for Governor and President for which figures were available at the time delegate tabulations were prepared.

Acting Chairperson Patricia Duggan will call the caucus at the Fourth of July Building. The caucus is open to all registered Democrats, persons ineligible to register and media representatives. The only persons eligible to participate in any portion of the caucus are those who are registered Democrats in the town as of December 31, 1991. There will be no absentee or proxy voting.

Candidates for delegate and alternate must also be present, voting and give his/her written consent to be nominated and that nomination must be seconded by two persons present at the local caucus.

All ballots will be written and secret. Those candidates receiving the greatest number of votes on the first ballot will be elected.

Each candidate will be allowed to make a two minute speech and to distribute on his/her behalf one sheet of paper listing qualifications and ideas.

Slate making is allowed, but no special preference shall be given to the slates. There is no quorum requirement for the caucus.

There will be no admission or expense charge at the caucus, although donations may be solicited. Discrimination on the basis of race, sex, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, ethnic identity, philosophical persuasion or economic status in the conduct of the caucus is strictly prohibited.

Challenges to the delegate selection process can be filed in writing with the Compliance Review Commission in care of The Mass. Democratic Party, 45 Bromfield St., Boston, MA 02108 no later than March 2, 1992.

A little kid named Stule
Was always out on a limb
Some thought he was a monkey
Or was the monkey really him?

And now you might wonder
If he spent his life in a tree
What might you get him
For birthday forty-three?

Cause Thursday is that day
And that day is mañana
The monkey would agree
Gift-wrap him a banana.

He was cute —
what happened?

Wilmington High School's Matt McManus drives in for two points during the first half of Friday night's 62-61 overtime victory over the first place Lawrence Lancers. John Lynch (10) trails the play for Wilmington.

Matt looks to pass

Wildcat guard Matt McManus (14) looks to make a pass to teammate Tom Peck (35) Friday night. McManus played another solid game in the WHS victory.

MVHL wrapup

Rangers win Small School showdown

The Small School showdown in the MVHL went to the Methuen Rangers Saturday night, as the home team peppered TMHS ace netminder Rob McGrath with 45 shots enroute to a 2-1 victory. The Redmen could manage just nine shots on net.

Bob Sharkey scored the lone TMHS' goal in the first period after McGrath had stoned the Rangers with 16 saves.

Bob Fryer tied the game for Methuen at 3:02 of the second period and Chris Kotyla scored the game winner at 2:30 of the final stanza.

The Wilmington Wildcats scored a mild upset Saturday afternoon at the Ristuccia Expo when they tied Andover and former WHS coach Bill Cullen, 2-2.

Freshmen Matt Calendrello scored his first varsity goal for Wilmington and senior Mike Pilcher scored the game winner assisted by John Ring.

MVC basketball

Defense keys WHS' comeback

by Rick Cooke
 Sports Editor

Down 15 points with 13 minutes left to play, the Wilmington Wildcats utilized a defensive gut-check to charge back and tip Lawrence, 62-61 in MVC basketball overtime before a packed house at the Cushing Gymnasium Friday night.

The Wildcats victory in the Small School showdown between the two teams gives the locals an 8-7 overall record, 5-6 in the league with four games left in the regular season.

The Lancers with the loss slipped to 10-8 overall, 7-5 in the conference as they maintained their hold on first place in the Small School Division.

Lawrence used a late first half burst to take a 36-27 halftime lead and stretched that to 15 points later in the game before Wilmington turned on the defensive afterburners.

"Everybody just decided to play tough defense tonight," noted Wildcat coach Jim McCune after the game. "It took a tremendous effort by everyone. We also made an effort to get the ball inside for the entire game, which kept their two big guys in foul trouble for most of the game."

The Wildcats two solid big men were once again factors both offensively and defensively in the victory. Greg Maiella scored 20 points, was eight for nine from the foul line and grabbed five rebounds for the home team. Eric Flynn was a triple threat with 17 points, 12 rebounds and five assists.

Guard Matt McManus played a solid game as well with eight points and four assists. Dave Oatis (seven points) and John Lynch (four points) also contributed to the Wildcat cause.

"All 10 kids played and they all contributed," praised McCune. The WHS coach also noted that the enthusiastic home crowd was a big factor in the victory. "The crowd was a big factor in this game. This was the most enthusiastic home crowd since I've been coaching here," noted the Wildcat coach.

"There was a pep rally held in the afternoon, and personally, it gave me a big lift, so I can just imagine what it did for the kids. The crowd tonight was definitely our sixth man."

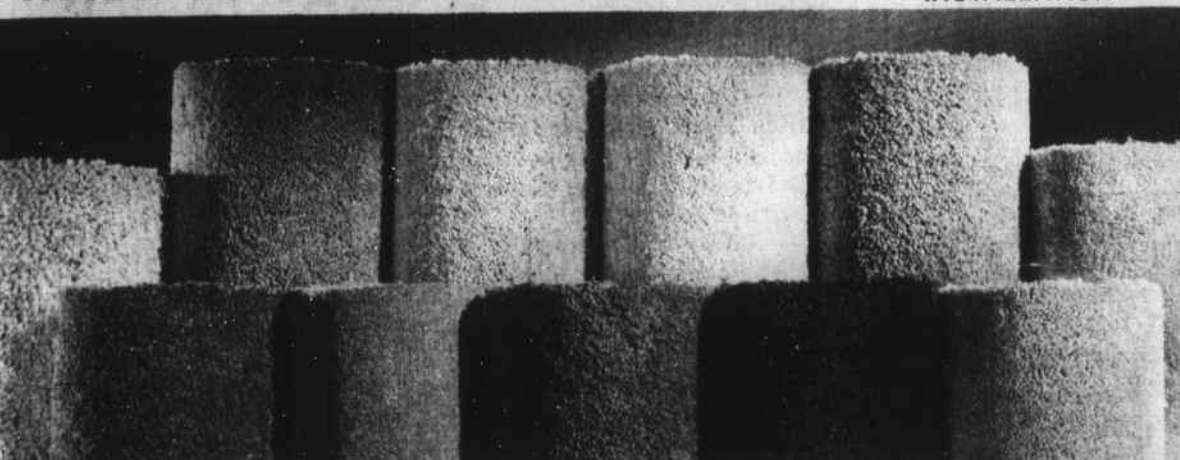

The new format all-tournament pairings will be announced Thursday night and the Wildcats should be an interesting team to watch throughout the postseason.

But before the tourney can begin, the team must finish strong over the final games of the regular season, and that includes the final regular season game for the seniors next Wednesday night (Feb. 19) against Woburn at the Cushing Gymnasium.

The WHS seniors playing in that final game will be John Lynch, Eric Engdahl, Derek Stokes, Matt McManus, Greg Maiella, Eric Flynn and Dan Godin.

Youth hockey next week

The Wilmington Youth Hockey report will be published next week. Due to the volume of material involved, the Town Crier does not want to shortchange one team, and has decided to run the entire report in next week's edition. Thank you, parents and fans, for your patience while we play catch-up.

TMHS girls fall, 52-46

The red-hot TMHS girls' varsity basketball squad dropped their first place showdown with a 52-46 loss to Methuen in MVC action Friday night. The defeat gave the Redmen a 10-4 overall record, 9-3 in the conference, while the Rangers improved to 13-5 overall, 10-3 in the conference.

Amy Beauregard paced Tewksbury with 23 points and 10 rebounds. Mary Beaulieu also played well for TMHS.

In other action Friday night, the Wilmington girls won their third game of the season with a 62-48 conquest of Lawrence. Lynnette Sbrano (19 points) and Jen Rago (15) led the Wildcats.

A strange season for ice

by Bill Conlon

The ice has been strange this year, very unusual.

The first ice of the season came to area ponds in December, after two weeks of truly bitter cold. But that "early ice" didn't last long, and part of it was lost in the warm days that followed.

For the last four weeks the temps have been decently cold. But the ice is marginal, at best. How strange.

Long Pond in Tyngsboro has had open water along the "deep" shore all winter long. Weird. Silver Lake in Wilmington has had a soggy edge off and on all season, and that too is peculiar.

With all the cold air we've had, you'd expect 10 inches to a foot of good ice, but it just isn't there.

There is enough ice for walking on most area ponds, but nothing to spare. A minimum of two inches is "safe" by most standards, but I'm a chicken. Unless I'm being pursued by hungry wolves, you won't find me setting foot on any pond that has less than four inches of black ice. A personal rule, you see.

The way the ice has been acting, it seems anxious to leave. Expect to see big open spots after a warming spell of more than two days, and full ice-out should be very early.

Be very careful on the ice, but do have fun.

There was enough ice over the weekend for fishing, and there was plenty of fishing done.

Saturday's event on Forge Pond, run by Westford American Legion Post 159, drew a good turnout to the Franco-American Club, where the event was run. Prizes went for three species, with weight deciding the biggest bass, and length making the call on pickerel and perch.

First place in the pickerel class was won by Mike Paganecchi from Westford, earning him $175. Mike must know Forge Pond very well, as evidenced by how often his name appeared. Mike tied for the second spot in pickerel with Tewksbury's John Fallon, a veteran of the Fog Derby on Long Pond a few years ago. Second and third places was combined, and they split the bucks.

Mike Paganecchi also hauled in the top bass, at 1-pound-15, for $175 in that species as well. Lonnie Arkalis of Burlington took second, while Lisa Bennett of Hubbardston took third place. Who says women don't enjoy ice fishing?

The Forge Pond perch were more generous, with Al Bennett of Westford taking the top prize, with an 11.5 inch; Tim Kane of Westford took second; and third place was a tie between Joe Jennings of Haverhill and Brian Auger of Littleton.

On Sunday, this scribe entered the Greater Lowell Fly Fishers derby on Crystal (Freeman) Lake, as did 161 others.

Without really knowing the pond, I picked a shoreline and headed out when I bumped into an old fishing acquaintance -- Ed Collings from Andover. So we teamed and picked a spot close enough to shore to get under the wind. As the 8 a.m. derby start neared, along came Bob Fuller and Pete Rinaldi from Wilmington, Mark Crane of Nashua, and "Team Modeski." Bob and Fred. Fishing is better with good company.

And that's about all we enjoyed, if you don't count the Kayem Holiday Sausage that Fred Modeski cooked on the Coleman, and Pete's hot dogs and hamburgers. Fishing was slow, to say the least. A few flags flew, with little to show. Pete was the only one to take a money fish, with a bass that started at fourth place and was bumped to sixth, for $25, by day's end.

First place and $300 went to Steve Nolet of Chelmsford, for a bass that weighed 2-pounds-13. Not the biggest bass ever seen, but the Nolet clan knows Crystal Lake well.

Second place went to club member Rene Noel of Lowell, for a 2-6 bass. As the club member with the biggest fish, Rene earned an extra C-note, plus his prize. Nice take!

Third place went to Eddie Silva of Wilmington, for a bass that came in at two pounds even. Eddie was on the ice with his usual bunch of suspects, although we never met up on the lake.

Norm Ulibarri of Windham, NH, took the first pickerel to place on the board, a 1-pound-6 fish that was good for fourth place; Dennis Krysiak of Dracut took a 1-5 bass for fifth; and Pete Rinaldi's bass pulled the scale to 1-4, worth $25.

Jerry Radcliffe of Dracut had a pickerel that held seventh place; Jerry Durand of Dracut was eighth; Fred Prescott of Groton earned the ninth slot; and Dave Ducharme's one pound pickerel rounded out the board. The power auger door prize was taken by Paul Dion of South Lawrence.

*****

There was also supposed to be an ice fishing derby by the Merrimack Valley Bass Masters on Sunday, on Lake Mascuppig in Dracut. Maybe there was, but I couldn't tell.

I went by at 5:30 to tell the crew I would be fishing on Crystal Lake, and that I'd be back later to take all the names, but there wasn't a soul to be found at the boat ramp. Utterly deserted.

Hoop

Top scorers for Washington were Jaime Forgett with 21 points, Sarah Powres and Katie Gillis with six points each. Kelly Barden and Stacy Palizzola played an all-around great game for UCLA.

Keri Scifo and Angela Cardinale played great defense for Washington and Jill Morin and Tracy Reitchel pulled down key rebounds.

After the Fly Fishers were done I returned to the Dracut boat ramp to get the names, at around 2:40 p.m. Again, not a soul, or a single truck. How odd. The MVBM hope to hold their third ice fishing derby of the season on February 23, so I'll try again. Maybe they won't be quite so invisible next time.

--- Tackle Box ---

If the ice agrees, we'll be back on the ice this weekend.

The annual Shawsheen Watershed Environmental Action Team event on Ames Pond is set for Sunday at the crack of dawn, part of the Met Life Outdoors Series. Entry fee is $10, payable at the weigh-in table.

Also on Sunday will be an event on Long Sought For pond in Westford, sponsored by the Sons of the Legion, Nabasset post 437. Prizes will again be for bass, pickerel and perch, and a trout category. The entry fee is $10, with signups at the Nabasset Legion, 114 Dunstable Road, Westford.

Also this weekend, the Westford Sportsmen's club Flea Market and Swap will be held, 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

A free Hunter Safety Course will be given at Tewksbury Rod & Gun club, starting March 5 and going to April 16, 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays. Good course, and entirely free!

visits Rotary

Mandy Farkas and her mother Susan were guests at the Rotary Club of Wilmington February 5, with Rotarian Jack Cushing being their escort. Mandy is a well known figure skater who is a member of the Skating Club of Boston. It is quite probable that she will participate in the Olympics of 1996.

Mandy has recently returned from the National Figure Skating meet in Orlando, Florida. It was, she told the Rotarians, a very busy month - up at 4:30 a.m. every day, and active all week long. There were from 14 to 18 young people skating, out of the thousands in the United States. Mandy scored fifth, in nationals.

She was skating before 9,000 people. The Rotarians were treated to a video tape made with a camcorder, showing Mandy as a figure skater.

Next year she will be in the Senior Ladies Division, which leads to National TV and the Olympics.

Mandy has two to three hours practice skating every day - seven days a week. If she does well she could be in the senior level next year.

She and other figure skaters do a lot of charity shows, every year, for such events as the Jimmy Fund.

MassBank awarded five-star rating

Bauer Financial Reports, Inc., a Coral Gables, Florida research firm, has announced that MassBank for Savings, Reading, Mass. has been awarded its five star rating. This is the sixth consecutive quarter that MassBank for Savings has received this prestigious award which identifies it as one of the safest, most credit-worthy savings banks in the United States.

Only 89 savings and cooperative banks out of a total of 217 Mass. banks reporting received the five star designation. Bauer based its award on the analysis of June 30, 1991 financial data as filed with federal regulators.

A five star rating, for the safest savings and cooperative banks in the country, indicates that MassBank for Savings' adjusted tangible capital exceeds 6.0 percent of tangible assets, its risk based capital ratio exceeds 9.25 percent, that there are no excessive delinquencies or repossessed assets and that the bank was profitable for the quarter ended June 30, 1991.

Paul A. Bauer, president of the research firm, said, "We award our five star ratings to savings banks that are strongly capitalized, have substantial reserves, a good return on investment and are prepared to weather economic difficulties, particularly in these uncertain times - banks like MassBank for Savings that are conservatively run, strongly capitalized, federally insured, community oriented institutions that concentrate on traditional consumer needs.

"Out of 448 FDIC-BIF insured savings and cooperative banks nationwide reporting for the period ended June 30, 1991, 198, nine out of 20, 44.2 percent, received our five star rating."

Bauer Financial Reports, Inc. analyzes and compiles data on all U.S. banks, thrifts and credit unions. A free rating on a single bank, thrift or credit union (one only, please) is available to interested readers by sending a self addressed, stamped business envelope to: Free Rating, Bauer Financial Reports, P.O. Drawer 145510, Coral Gables, FL 33114-5510.

Wilmington senior topics*If you can't go, say so

Please remember to call the Senior Center if you have signed up for the therapeutic social on Friday evening and will not be able to attend. We have a waiting list with a senior hoping for a cancellation.

February vacation

The school will be closed next week for February vacation. That means there will be no meals served at the school. Seniors confined to their homes due to illness, disability or advanced age wishing to have a meal delivered on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of that week should call the center. These meals will be brought to the center by Minuteman Homecare on the above mentioned days and delivered to you by our lunch drivers. Monday being a holiday Minuteman Homecare and the center will be closed; no meals will be delivered.

Due to the holiday the minibus will not be on the road; please make your appointments accordingly.

Vial of life

I am still waiting for many seniors who were given the Vial of Life forms to complete them. Put one in your refrigerator and stick the decal on the outside of the refrigerator door. One of the forms should be kept on your person at all times. The other should be taken back to the office to be put in our files.

Many programs

We have many programs and classes for our seniors at the center. And other programs held outside the center, such as bowling, swimming, walking, lunch site and therapeutic socials; along with a seniors receiving free coffee and donuts in the kitchen and using the game room. With the large participation in all the programs and classes at the center and the ones mentioned above involves many many seniors who go into the hundreds. God forbid, if a medical problem should come suddenly while taking part in any of the programs, contacting the person you wish to be with you at a hospital when you arrive, and getting the proper medical care you will need as quickly and safely as you should. The person transporting you to a hospital if you are not very coherent should know any medical problem you have, medication you are taking and any allergies you may have that will have an effect on your treatment.

I cannot help you while at the center unless you help me do so by returning your Vial of Life form and at a therapeutic social unless you have a completed form on your person. Please complete your form and bring the office one back to me and follow the directions on the other two. None of us know when we may be very happy we completed these forms.

New law

I have been notified by Mr. Abbott of the Social Security office in Lowell a new law is being enacted called "Deceptive Mailing Prevention Act" that will combat mail scams.

It is expected to provide much needed protection to Social Security beneficiaries besieged by various solicitations with an official looking envelope. This law will give the Postal Service specific power to stop delivery of mail that gives the impression it is connected with Medicare or Social Security, that misleads the elderly they have to respond or lose their Social Security or Medicare benefits.

Take these steps

Here are the steps you should take of you receive mail you think violates this new law. First, you can go to your post office, explain why you are concerned about the mailing and ask the people there to forward the mailing to the Postal Inspector's office, or you can send your complaint directly to the Chief Postal Inspector, United States Postal Service, 475 L'Enfant Plaza, S.W. Washington D.C. 20260-2100.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending February 11, Wilmington police officers responded to 39 alarms, assisted other departments seven times and completed eight bank escorts.

Three assaults were investigated along with three burglaries, five incidents of disorderly conduct, three larcenies and three domestic problems.

Medical assistance was rendered on two occasions, 11 non-criminal complaints were logged, officers made six arrests and five protective custody detentions. Fourteen public services were performed, three traffic complaints were taken, seven traffic accidents were investigated.

Alert neighbors reported 10 incidents of suspicious activity, five cases of vandalism were reported, seven traffic services were completed and one motor vehicle theft was reported.

Arrests

Tuesday morning Officer Shepard arrested Timothy R. Grant, 24 of Methuen. Grant was charged with operating a motor vehicle after suspension.

Beverly A. McKoy, 49, of Billerica was arrested Wednesday morning by Officer Shepard. McKoy was charged with operating after suspension and outstanding warrants.

Sgt. Spencer arrested Paul L. Giordano, Jr. of 167 Main St., Wilmington Wednesday evening. The arrest was made as a result of a traffic accident. Giordano was charged with operating under the influence of a narcotic drug, and possession of a class B narcotic.

Robert Roscillo, 32 of Woburn was arrested for operating after revocation and operating with a revoked registration. The arrest was made by Officer Axelrod.

Early Thursday morning Sgt. Neville and Officer Bruce arrested Debra Gustafson, 28 of Woburn on a warrant issued out of Stoneham.

After investigating an accident Friday evening Officer Bossi arrested a Lowell juvenile and charged him with operating under the influence of alcohol.

Early Saturday morning Sgt. Neville arrested Nhan H. Truong, 23 of Salem, NH. Truong was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol.

Dawn Stroh, 25 of Woburn was arrested by Officer Paul Jepson early Sunday morning. Stroh was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

James Thomas Jr., 25 of Lowell was arrested Monday afternoon by Officers Steve LaRivee and Mike Begonis. Thomas was stopped on Aldrich Road and was charged with motor vehicle offenses along with warrants issued by Salisbury Police. He was later bailed for appearances in Woburn and Newburyport courts.

'Heart to Heart': Kids to kids on AIDS

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"Too many people out there are using AIDS as a weapon to hurt others, deliberately giving it to others. A lot of people do that," says Jennifer, bright, attractive, and articulate - with everything to live for.

"That's what happened to me." Jennifer, 22, was diagnosed two years ago as HIV-positive.

She is not a homosexual male from the inner city. She has been drug-free for three years.

Jennifer could be the girl next door.

She's from Melrose.

"Somebody has to put themselves on the line," she says. "I never wanted to keep my diagnosis a secret - there are too many dying from AIDS, too many who have died from it, too many who are going to die from it."

"A girl I thought was my friend figured, 'Well, if I'm gonna die, I'm gonna take everybody with me.' And she's doing a good job of that. I wouldn't even begin to estimate how many people she's given this to - she still works the streets and she still shoots up with people."

Jennifer is at Reading High this morning, and it's downright dangerous for her to be there - because it's flu season. But these days, she courageously drags herself to area schools on the strength of her conviction that the following messages must be telegraphed to today's teens:

Two of her young girlfriends are HIV-positive because they had sex only once - without a condom.

People with AIDS are spreading the HIV virus - in all innocence, or on purpose.

Healthy-looking people carry the virus.

You are the only one who can protect you.

She travels to various secondary schools with other educators as part of "Heart-to-Heart," a five-day HIV prevention and sexuality education program devoted to the prevention of pregnancy, sexually transmitted infections and HIV-AIDS among teenagers. In its second year, Heart-to-Heart is a collaboration among the Massachusetts Department of Education, the AIDS ACTION Committee, the Planned Parenthood League of Massachusetts, and about a dozen target schools throughout the state.

Its strong impact comes from its design: it is tailored to small groups of students in intimate classroom settings. In this case, it is aimed at juniors and seniors through their physical education course - and pierces every single one, in the head and in the heart.

"Do you ever deny the fact that you have AIDS?" asks one student.

"No," says Jennifer. "I wish I could."

"Sometimes I wish I could go into denial and not ever think about it again. You know the commercial about the girl who's in school and they keep bringing up AIDS and HIV and all this. And she says, 'If I hear one more word about AIDS, I think I'll scream.' And then at the end, it says, 'If you think you're sick of hearing about AIDS, then listen to someone who's really sick of it.'"

"That's how I feel a lot of the time - it's like if I see another one of those commercials ....

"No," she continues. "I've never been in denial because I'm a really realistic person and whatever happens, happens."

"People ask me, 'Oh my God, what did you do? What did you say? What did you do when the doctor told you?'"

"I didn't do anything. I almost cried and I almost screamed and I almost passed out cold and I almost punched the doctor. I didn't know what to do. I totally went into shock."

"What do you do? The doctor says, 'Yeah, you have this horrible, painful, incurable disease that probably will kill you, but I've got another patient. See you later.' What do you do?"

When Jennifer comes to class, she's the most powerful lesson students learn that day.

She's the first to tell them she did not have an exemplary childhood or lead an exemplary life. She talks about parties, physical and substance abuse, loneliness, prostitution, pregnancies, pelvic inflammatory disease, transfusions, infertility, and street life - and she tells it like it is.

The dramatic details of her story, revealed with irony, humor, energy and style - in teen talk from a teen perspective - command instant attention and respect. She weaves them masterfully with messages about self-esteem, responsibility, abstinence, sexually transmitted diseases, and denial; bravely shares tales of personal highs and horrors; and generously promises to answer "any" questions.

Don't think for a minute that Jennifer is subtle - she doesn't have the time.

"I'm here to tell you what it's like to live with HIV, the virus that causes AIDS," she says. "I've heard other speakers say this has changed their life and everything, and that's b.s. - yeah, it's changed my life, it's ruined my life."

"I ruined the first 18 years of my life, and I thought I was going

Science Fiction Festival in Boston

By ROCHELLE O'GORMAN
FLYNN

It was a dark and stormy night nearly 17 years ago. Thunder crashed and test tubes rattled as the lab doors flung open, letting in both the elements and all those (gasp) science fiction fans. A scream rose in the man's throat as the throng of people rushed toward him...

That's how it all began. Well, almost.

Garen Daly may have a sinister sense of humor, but is otherwise a regular guy. Until February. Then he dons that lab coat, rattles those film cans and programs a 24-hour Annual Science Fiction Festival in the Boston area, of late at the Coolidge Corner Theatre in Brookline. It's just a little something he's been concocting for the past 17 years.

The motto for this year's festival, which begins at noon on February 16, is "Old Enough to Know Better, Young Enough to Stay Awake." Not bad when you consider that some of the now-graying audience has been attending this event since its inception and now bring their kids. These die hard regulars make it as much fun to watch the audience as the screen. While most attendees can be seen clutching the occasional ray gun, some of these sci-fi buffs travel in packs and arrive in costume. The 12-year-old Martian Liberation Organization will be on hand, along with the newly formed Asteroid Farmers of Saturn and New Hampshire's own Zaphod Beeblebrox Memorial Marching Band, a 20-strong group led by Dave Chamberlain.

Eleven flicks are on the slate this year, as well as assorted shorts, trailers and the complete 12-part serial from the 1940's, "The Adventures of Captain Marvel." Daly has also secured copies of Daffy Duck's "The Scarlet Pumpernickel" and two Bugs Bunny shorts, "Hareway to the Stars, and "Hasty Hare." As always, prizes will be awarded to the winners of Daly's incredibly difficult trivia contest.

The most intriguing of the flicks on this year's roster is "The Lawnmower Man," which is making its New England debut. Based on a Stephen King short story, it tells the tale of a man who goes against the laws of nature when his life is mingled with the unreal world of virtual reality. Featuring innovative computer animation, it stars Pierce Brosnan and Jenny Wright.

A common theme in science fiction is man versus machine, an idea that thunders across the screen in director James Cameron's "Terminator 2:

Science Fiction to S-13

JOBE SMITH (JEFF FAHEY), standing inside the Cybersphere, prepares to experience Virtual Reality in New Line Cinema's science-fiction thriller, The Lawnmower Man.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your town. We also welcome original material—please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About The Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

READING - Do you have turn-of-the-century pictures of Reading's old Pleasant St. fire station?

Reading DPW Director Tony Fletcher is designing and engineering its renovation and would like to restore early architectural details, particularly on the Pleasant St. side of the building where a window was replaced by a door many years ago. The former fire station is about to become a Senior Citizen's Center, thanks to a $750,000 state grant.

Contact Fletcher at the Public Works Department, 16 Lowell St., Reading 01867; (617)942-9076.

STONE ZOO - The Friends to Reopen Stone Zoo are looking for volunteers willing to work there in any of the following capacities when it reopens: admission, ticket-taking, visitor information, typing, food and gift concessions, bookkeeping, graphic design, maintenance, gardening, and assisting zookeepers.

Contact the Friends at (617)438-7459 or (617)438-9488 - or attend the monthly meeting at 7 p.m. on Thursday, the 13th at the Stoneham Public Library.

WOBURN - The Woburn Planning Board is tired of working in a vacuum, according to the Woburn edition of the Daily Times Chronicle.

So, this year, the board will make a major effort to talk all issues out with city counselors and various city department heads, including those in the DPW, city engineer's office and building commissioner's office.

Among projects considered worthy of a joint board review are Washington Street in East Woburn, Mishawum Road in the Woburn Mall-WRA Industrial Park area, the landfill area in North Woburn, and downtown Woburn.

Plans for the '90s include some serious "networking" with anyone and everyone outside - especially inside - city hall, all for the good of the city.

ERI offers local youths summer job training

Employment Resources, Inc. (ERI), under the auspices of the Metro North Private Industry Council, is once again requesting proposals from cities, towns, state and federal agencies, as well as other public or private, non-profit organizations. Proposed opportunities to provide work experiences, short-term job training, basic education or a combination of these activities during the summer months to local disadvantaged youth will be selected and funded under Title IIB of the Federal Job Training and Partnership Act. The program serves eligible youth, ages 14-21, who reside or (attend school) in ERI's 20 community area which includes Arlington, Belmont, Burlington, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Revere, Somerville, Stoneham, Wakefield, Watertown, Wilmington, Winchester, Winthrop and Woburn.

On Wednesday, February 19th, a proposal workshop will be held at 10 a.m. at Employment Resources, 432 Columbia Street in Cambridge where the process will be reviewed and proposal kits and information will be provided. "The workshop is not mandatory," says Ron Eydenberg, Director of the Summer Program, "but the 1992 'Request for Proposal Form' has been entirely rewritten this year and it's important for people to understand the changes that have taken place." ERI is also encouraging agencies and school systems to attend.

It has also been indicated that this year an emphasis will be placed on the development of Special Projects which are proposals that not only provide a job training opportunity, but also build in a basic and/or remedial education component for the benefit of youth. "We were delighted with the thought and creativity that went in to the special projects last year -- and we will continue to be particularly proactive in encouraging agencies, if at all possible, to work with us in developing educationally enriched projects," commented Nancy Brown, President of ERI.

Anyone unable to attend the workshop but needing a proposal kit, please send a written request to Ron Eydenberg, SYETP Director, Employment Resources, Inc., 432 Columbus Street, Cambridge, 02141. For other information call (617) 494-1154.

It's time for sugaring off tours at Audubon sanctuary

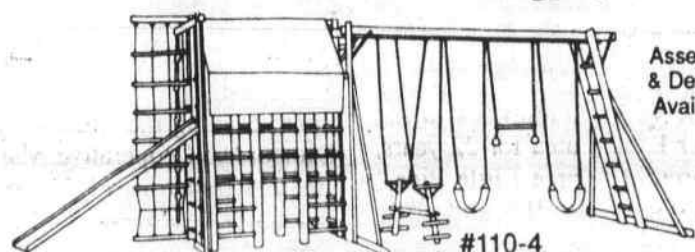

The Massachusetts Audubon Society's Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary in Topsfield will conduct its annual Sugaring Off tours February 25-March 15. School and scout groups and families come to the sanctuary to learn about the process of maple syrup production and the natural history of the sugar maple. School groups are scheduled for the mornings, Tuesday through Friday, while family groups come on the weekends.

Volunteers are needed for a variety of tasks, from leaving school, scout and family tours, to splitting wood, collecting sap and cooking hot dogs. If you would like to become involved in this year's sugaring off operation, the Ipswich River Wildlife Sanctuary is offering a volunteer training session on Saturday, February 15 for those who wish to help on the weekends.

Anyone interested in learning about maple sugaring firsthand or sharing their skills and knowledge, please call the sanctuary for details at (508) 887-9264.

N.R. Theatre Workshop presents "As Time Goes By"

The North Reading Theatre Workshop has announced its Spring Production will be "As Time Goes By...A Sentimental Journey." This "Sentimental Journey" is a full-blown musical revue and will highlight music, song and dance from the 30's and 40's. Among the production numbers planned are "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree...", "Dreams," "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," "I'll Be Seeing You in Apple Blossom Time," "My Buddy," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and many more.

NRTW's "Sentimental Journey" is open to anyone interested in performing. There will be full chorus production numbers, as well as solos, duets, trios and other specialty segments. And don't forget the dance numbers - from romantic ballroom to energetic tap.

Persons who want to be a part of this musical extravaganza should bring their favorite song from the 30s and 40s to try-outs on Tuesday, February 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Union Congregational Church, Haverhill Street, North Reading.

"As Time Goes By...A Sentimental Journey" is scheduled to be performed the second weekend of May at the newly renovated auditorium at North Reading High School. Production staff is also needed, including Stage Manager, Lighting, Costumes and Program Book.

Anyone who cannot attend on February 18th, or needs further information, please call Paul Greene at (508) 681-0355.

PROGRAM ON PREGNANCY AND CHILDBIRTH

Great Beginnings, The Malden Hospital Maternity Services will host a program entitled "Meet the Staff Night" on Tuesday, February 25th, in The Malden Hospital Auditorium, from 7 to 9 p.m. The program will be geared to pregnant women, or women planning on getting pregnant, and their families and friends. Participation in the presentation and panel discussion will include the Chief of Obstetrics and Gynecology, Chief of Anesthesiology, The Malden Hospital staff Pediatrician, plus a Certified Nurse Midwife, and they will answer any questions about having a baby. Refreshments and a tour of Great Beginnings will follow.

According to Barbara Freeman, Associate Director of Nursing at The Malden Hospital, "Experience has shown that pregnant women and their families have many questions about pregnancy and childbirth. We have designed a program which enables them to meet and speak to members of our staff, ask questions and familiar-

Caring is a Family Tradition. Yours and Ours.

Choosing the right Nursing Home.

Choosing a quality Nursing Home is never easy. It's even more difficult to find one that meets the patient's needs as well as your own expectations. There are so many factors to consider; location and reputation, ambiance and amenities. Most importantly of all, the quality of care and level of services.

It's a big decision don't rush.

Take your time and consider all the different factors carefully. Don't settle on the nearest place or decide simply on the lowest price. There is more to the selection of a nursing home than just price. Sometimes only a few more dollars a day separates an outstanding facility from a mediocre one. Don't make a hasty decision because it is a big decision.

Consider Greenview Manor in Wakefield and what it has to offer. It is a facility that stands out from all the rest, and has all the things you are looking for.

A Tradition of Caring.

Greenview Manor is owned and operated by the Bane family. A family with over 30 years of experience and expertise in providing care and services to the elderly.

Greenview Manor has recently been up-graded and completely refurbished. A variety of comfortable, well-appointed accommodations await your selection and preference. Suites, deluxe semi-private rooms and very affordable standard units. Besides the attractive decor and design, there is something else very distinctive about Greenview Manor. The Bane family's personal commitment to high quality nursing care and attentive service motivates every department, every shift.

You will find Greenview Manor has all the things you want and look for in a Nursing Home; quality care, friendly service, comfortable accommodations and affordable rates. One more important point. Caring is a family tradition, yours and ours.

"THE LEGACY OF WOUNDED KNEE"

An illustrated lecture by Skip Schiel and Louise Dunlap documenting the "Bigfoot Memorial Ride" to Wounded Knee, South Dakota, in 1990 will be presented in the Rabb Lecture Hall of the Boston Public Library in Copley Square on Tuesday evening, February 18, at 6:30 p.m.

The 150-mile, seven-day horseback ride was along the same trail taken by Chief Bigfoot and his people on their way to the "Wounded Knee Massacre" in 1890.

The centennial journey by members of several Indian tribes was organized by the Lakota (Dakota) people to "wipe away the tears" and "mend the sacred hoop" and was intended to "end the period of mourning and begin the rebuilding of the Indian nation."

The lecture is in conjunction with a photo exhibit on the same subject that will be on display in the Great Hall of the Central Library from February 4 through 27. Both the lecture and exhibit are free and open to the public.

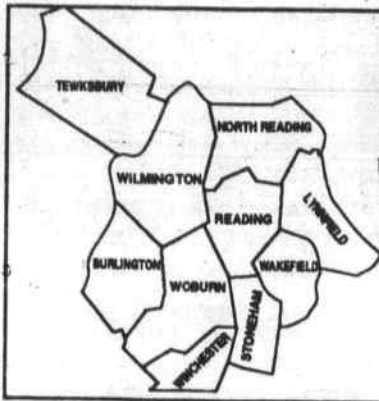

Exhibit hours are Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

KIDS MEET BIRDS UP CLOSE

Flashes of exotic color will brighten your February Vacation days in two exciting programs for children ages 6-10. On Wednesday, February 19, come birdwatching in complete comfort on a visit with Exotic Birds, such as a king penguin, a kiwi, a Philippine hornbill, and other rare birds in the Peabody Museum of Salem's Natural History galleries. Kids will learn some simple bird calls and meet Rocky, a live Mexican double yellowhead parrot.

On Thursday, February 20, kids will hunt throughout the museum for a rainbow of colorful bird coverings as they seek Exciting Feathers on helmets, masks, capes, jewelry, and much more. They will also make their own feathered item to take home.

Each program runs from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Cost per program is $4 for museum members, $5 for nonmembers, and includes museum admission. An accompanying adult is admitted free. For information and reservations, call (508) 745-1876.

School notes

by phyllis nissen

—Reading's Coolidge Middle School students will present "You're A Good Man Charlie Brown," a family musical and valentine treat, on Thursday, February 13th at 3:30 p.m. and Friday, February 14th at 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Word is this production of "Charlie Brown" is a must-see. Musical director is Jeanne Thomas, stage director is Judy O'Hare, producer is Bob Mingolelli.

Tickets - $4 per adult and $3 per student-child - are available through the school at 89 Birch Meadow Drive, (617) 942-9158 or through The Turning Pointe, 73 Haven St., Reading.

—Of the more than 620 Stoneham High students who took the annual high school Physical Education Department fitness tests, 50 percent achieved 50 percent or better.

Intended to measure health-related fitness rather than athletic ability, the tests include a mile test for aerobic capacity and muscular endurance, a sit-and-reach test to measure flexibility in the hamstrings and lower back, a sit-up test to measure abdominal strength, and a body fat test.

This spring the school will retest all those who did not pass - after they've worked on relevant skills all winter. Students who achieve 50 to 74 percent on all tests earn an all-American certificate; those who earn 75 percent or better receive a national certificate.

Principal Peter Magner of Wakefield's Hurd School suggests the following ways parents can help develop their children's all-important self-esteem.

Parents are encouraged to: encourage their children to join constructive groups, such as Scouts, orchestra or an athletic team, with other children their age; offer opportunities for skill development in a variety of areas, such as music, art or creative writing; make their home available to friends; avoid giving children so many responsibilities they have little time for activities with friends.

Parents are also encouraged to: support their children's need to develop friends and interests different from their parents - "do not force a child to play sports if he would rather play the piano"; and to help children show off their accomplishments, through a scrapbook or a "Hall of Fame" on the refrigerator door.

—The economy strikes again: although it offered the largest number of courses since 1987, the Woburn Adult Evening School experienced a 10 percent drop in fall registrations, according to Director David Brigham.

—Seven years good luck have struck North Reading in the form of a newly renovated high school and rededication ceremony which attracted hundreds of townsfolk.

The $6.75 million project - from voter approval to actual construction - began in 1984.

So then, this week's "high" achievers award goes to the North Reading High School Building Committee, chaired by John Welsh and composed of Ed Barletta, David Burke, James Donahoe, Lawrence Dymant, John Firriello, James Newell, and Jeffrey Perrone.

Woodchips

ANTHONY MANCONI

Almost everybody has great respect and admiration for the fire fighters. Many boys dream of riding on one of those big red fire trucks as it speeds toward the scene of a fire. They then see themselves rushing into a blazing inferno and saving someone's life.

Folks, please let us not forget another group of heroic men and women in blue who are almost taken for granted. They are the police officers whose lives are in danger every minute that they are on duty. Woodchips appreciates and understands the difficult job they have and I salute them too.

A horse pulling a wagon loaded with horse manure was slowly winding its way on a road in Danvers. As the wagon came abreast of two residents sitting on a wall, one of them asked the farmer sitting high on the wagon, "Whatcha got there mister?" "Horse manure," came the quick reply. "Whatcha going to do with it?" "Put it on my strawberries." One of the gentlemen turned to his pal and said, "Gee, we put cream on our strawberries and 'We' are supposed to be 'Nuts'!"

Do any of you former Boston Naval Shipyard workers remember Leo O'Brien the machinist in charge of aligning ship propellers? Well, Leo O'Brien had the most picturesque speech I have ever heard. Here are a few samples of his many "gems." "I taught you every thing I know and you're still stupid." "The next time I send a darn fool, I'll go myself." "My boy Brian went swimming today. If he comes home drowned, I'll kill him!" And when someone was introduced to Leo, he'd look at him as ask, "Tell me, were you the one who was drowned last year or was it your brother?" Okay, some of you may think those gems are nutty -- well, let me tell you, Leo O'Brien had one of the most important jobs in the Navy Yard. He told me that he would say things like that to relieve the tensions of a demanding job. Leo indeed was a Master Craftsman, a Nova Scotian and a wonderful friend of mine.

Kathy puts on so much body lotion, cold cream and oil every night she "slides" out of bed every morning...The title of the book of the month is, "The Run to the Outhouse" by Willie Makit?

Personality Winners
Christine Sheedy, Kerry O'Brien, Hugh and Julia O'Brien, Police Officer Albert J. Duff, Jr., Amy Gerardi, Judy Lundy, Nicole Capraro, Dan Faucon, Domenic Sedondini, Robert Nardone and Cindy Tauro, all of Stoneham; Wow! in this day and age when some marriages are counted in days it's refreshing for Woodchips to wish Mr. and Mrs. Bill Belbin a "Happy 62nd" wedding anniversary, Patricia Millward, Sandra Cagnina, Christine Pozzi, Teresa Murray, David MacMullin, Mary Espinola, Kristen Catanzano,

Supplement to Daily Times - Chronicle (Woburn, Reading, Winchester, Burlington, Wakefield), Lynnfield, Village, No. Reading Transcript, Wilmington & Tewksbury Town Crier, Stoneham Independent

David DiCenso, Robert Connell and Richard Barletta, all of Wilmington, David Caprigno, Kathleen Colbert, Susan Gallant, Rebecca Hallisey, Kristin Kent, Heather Lacroix, Meredith Lawrie, Andrea Lombardi, David MacElhiney, Patricia Nelson and Claire Tremblay, all of Tewksbury; Richard Hamel, Frank Giuliano, Ken Couture, Tony and Carol Falco, Joseph Mozzicato, Rich Burke, Capt. Barry McNutt and Lt. John Nash of the Winchester Fire Dept. and Jenn Gilpatric, all of Winchester; Carl Torrice, Missy Townsend, Sheri Lanni, Michelle Fowle, Danielle Dell'Olio, Mike O'Reilly, Amy Zagaja and Karole McCue all of Woburn; Peter and Joseph Margi (two men with a lot of spirit), Matt Robitaille, Denny Doble, Leland Preble, Tony Dalessio, Tina Braceland, Mary Lu Pymm, Diane Higden, Patty Carson, Tina Pondelli and Katie Umile, all of Burlington.

Also, Joyce Cosentino, Danielle Connolly, Kathryn Murphy, Rebecca Croft, Dave Jessor, Kert Blodgett, Sean Olson, Lisa Memmolo, Eryn MacDonald, Karen O'Connor, Shannon Rea and Shawmut Bank Manager Vivian Craig, all of Reading; Colleen McMenimen, Danielle Mokaba, Kary Brennan, Alexis Bailey, Kerith Hudd, Mike Leone, Mike O'Toole, Ed Hunt, Tom Chapman, Jason Hamelin and Greg Beutner, all of Wakefield; Timothy Fanikos, Guy Festa, Joseph Bianchi, Carmine Mastrogianni CPA and Walter Flaherty CPA, all of Lynnfield.

In my almost ten years of writing Woodchips for the Middlesex East Supplement, I've mentioned many people whom I deemed to be "Profiles in Courage." After reading Gordon Vincent's article in the Sports Pages of the Daily Times Chronicle I am happy to include a special member of the Woburn boys basketball team, the team's manager, Amy Zagaja. She is an Honor Roll student and also is a part time teller at the Northern Bank in Burlington three days a week. But, what makes Amy a remarkable young lady is that inner drive she possesses that makes her an extraordinary girl. She was born with a congenital defect in her left leg and she is a model patient of the famous orthopedic surgeon Dr. Arthur Pappas, team physician of the Red Sox baseball team. My personal friend Christine Griffin who is in a wheelchair said when she was nominated Women of the Year, "Measure me by my ability not my disability." Amy Zagaja, you are one of the true "Profiles in Courage."

George Burns is still going strong, at the age of 96. George said, "Retirement at 65 is ridiculous. When I was 65, I still had pimples!"...Lord Byron believed in "Let us have wine and women, mirth and laughter, sermons and soda-water the day after."

My Aunt Nora told the deli manager, "Young man, this is the cheese I bought here yesterday. Please tell me again, was this cheese 'imported' or 'deported'?" Janet Mugford of Boston Five

"Final Analysis"

by Rochelle Flynn

"Final Analysis" Starring Kim Basinger, Richard Gere, Uma Thurman, Eric Roberts. Directed by Phil Joanou. Produced by Charles Roven, Paul Junger Witt, Tony Thomas. Screenplay by Wesley Strick. Rated R.

Richard Gere plays a mega-successful shrink who can't see past his own libido or Kim Basinger's blonde tresses. Basinger, a twisted woman with an evil sister, may have killed her Greek Orthodox gangster husband on purpose. Or maybe not. Or perhaps she has an obscure medical malady called pathological intoxication, in which the slightest amount of alcohol renders her totally insane.

Then again, maybe this plot is really as lame as it sounds. "Final Analysis" is all decked out as a serious thriller, but has nowhere to go. The plot is far too campy to be even slightly scary and is about as believable as an afternoon soap.

The story unfolds with Uma Thurman curled up on her shrink's couch. She is telling him a dream - a dream she actually lifted from a famous casebook study of Freud's, but our shrink (Gere) is too dense to pick this up.

Thurman is neurotic, unhappy. Nothing in her confessions indicate a serious problem, yet she insists her sister should talk to Doc Gere about her family history. A history she has apparently blocked out.

Thus the door is left open for sister Basinger, who quickly lands the good doctor on the couch. Ethically speaking, this area is a little gray, but Gere is smitten. Next thing we know, Basinger's wacked her vile hubby, played by Eric Roberts in another of his over-the-top performances. Sister Thurman, apparently without a friend in the world, turns to her psychiatrist to bail Basinger out of the clink. The story spirals out of control from there. Is Basinger a victim or a criminal? Is Thurman the good sister or the bad sister? Do we care?

Though Gere and Basinger and San Francisco all look sexy and inviting, this drama is riddled with logistical problems. Gere's actions are often silly, yet he is supposed to be a smart man. And then there are all those endings. Each subsequent resolution adds nothing to the story but drains away the film's slight plausibility.

Director Phil Joanou knows a lot about style. The film looks great. He even pulled a good performance out of Basinger. Less twitchy and self-conscious than usual, she is certainly at her best as this hard-bitten husband killer. But Joanou squandered his skill by making this film into a weak Hitchcockian clone instead of giving it his own voice. Of course, only a clever script doctor could have saved Wesley Strick's story from a lukewarm prognosis. As it stands, "Final Analysis" is all panache and not enough punch.

At Park Zoo

"Vacation in the Tropics"

Massachusetts residents can vacation in the tropics this winter without leaving the state. Boston's Franklin Park Zoo announced plans to host a hot February school vacation week of programs for the young at heart, featuring its Second Annual Black Scientists Festival in celebration of Black History Month. "Vacation in the Tropics" will take place at Franklin Park Zoo's African Tropical Forest and Birds World from Monday, February 17 through Friday, February 21. From 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day, enjoy the tropical climate of the African Tropical Forest and Bird World as well as fun and informative programs.

Activities for this program include: Story Telling and Puppet Shows, interactive animal tales

Quannapowitt Players in Night Watch

Quannapowitt Players, Inc., a 55-year old community theatre group located in Reading, is presenting Lucille Fletcher's Night Watch in their Hopkins Street playhouse.

The well known thriller is being directed by Nancy Curran Willis, the organization's current President. Willis is best known for her achievement as director of the 1991 New England Theatre Conference's Best Production. Tom Griffin's poignant drama, The Boys Next Door, was her directing debut. The production earned her a Best Director nomination as well as several top acting awards. Since joining the organization almost 20 years ago, she has worked in every technical capacity and has given fine performances in a number of Quannapowitt productions.

New York critics raved, "Night Watch is a thriller that's exhilarating to witness." "Fletcher's tale is full of clever dialogue and heart-pounding action."

Night Watch opens when the play's heroine makes a grisly discovery through the window of her elegant New York brownstone. What follows is an intricate psychological drama focusing on trust and betrayal. The play promises to be a thrilling theatrical experience for its audience.

Featured in the cast are Sigrid Perkins, Hugh Mettler, Barbara J. Dempsey, Rich Hanna, Lake Bobbit, Grace Butler, Barry Friedman, Barbara Bourgeois and John K. Cipolaro.

Night Watch opens February 14 and runs weekends through March 2. Tickets for the 10 performance run are on sale now. For reservations or information call (617) 944-2212. Curtain is at 8:15 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays and at 7 p.m. on Sunday.

Performing Hearts
OF GREATER LYNN

No we're not looking to form a chorus line, but we are looking for nurses with plenty of heart to keep our 75 year tradition of home healthcare going. At the VNA of Greater Lynn, we know that in addition to the excellent one-on-one care we administer, our patients also depend on the smiles and unusually warm hearts our nurses have. If you have a performing heart and would love to be a part of our cast, consider the following roles:

RN's
$14.40-$17.98/hr

Must have a minimum of one year Med/Surg experience. Hours are 8am-4pm daily. No more night shifts!

PT's/OT's
$33 & $36/visit

Staff positions also available.

VNA of Greater Lynn offers competitive salaries and excellent benefits packages commensurate with experience. Please send your resume including salary requirements to: Chris Guercio, Human Resources Manager, VNA of Greater Lynn, 16 City Hall Square, Lynn, MA 01901.
